

Subjects and Predicates

A complete subject includes the simple subject and all the details that go with it. A complete predicate includes the simple predicate and all the descriptive words that accompany it.

Example: The blue dolphins performed tricks for the audience.

Underline the complete subjects, and circle the complete predicates.

- 1) Francesca's favorite drink is lemonade with mint.
- 2) The book on the table belongs to my grandpa.
- 3) Owen's mother picked me up from school today.
- 4) The big green frog jumped into the pond.
- 5) The new teacher gave a long spelling list to the students.
- 6) My friends from college have invited me to dinner.
- 7) The excited fans cheered when the home team won the final.
- 8) Peter's elder sister studied at Columbia University.
- 9) A few oak trees in the park are well over 100 years old.
- 10) My old leather jacket is still fashionable.