were all one could hear. There were cows chewing the cud, too.

After a little examination, she cleared her throat and said,

"Oh! It's the frog in his soup that he swallowed in a rush!"

"Thwack," she punched his stomach, and the frog popped out gasping for air.

"Cock-a-doodle-do," cried the rooster, and all the animals let out a sigh of relief.

Dr. Chicken turned toward them, triumph shining on her face.

"You see, folks, quick thinking and a bit of force can solve any problem."
