Gary was sculpting a unicorn figurine with his modeling clay. He _____ wrapped his new modeling kit. He pulled out some clay and made a ball for the head and another for the body. He then made four sausages for the legs. He tried to put the miniature animal together but was _____ able to do so. It seemed _____ possible. Gary was _____ heartened. Just then, Amanda suggested using toothpicks. He _____ agreed with her. However, he gave it a try when she insisted. She _____ liked its cone-shaped horn. So, he _____ modeled it into a twisted horn. He made some colorful noodle shapes for the mane. It looked _____ done. He removed a few noodles, and the mane was perfect. The thin sausage for the tail was a _____ match. He added some more sausages, and that made it right. After an hour's hard work, Gary's unicorn figurine sat on his table smiling at him.
